

Test for fo:block attributes text-align, text-align-last, text-indent. The alignment of the following blocks should be as specified inside them. The last (7th) block on the page should contain the text outside the block borders.

The block with left alignment. The block with left alignment. The block with left alignment. The block with left alignment. The block with left alignment. The block with left alignment.

The block with center alignment. The block with center alignment. The block with center alignment. The block with center alignment. The block with center alignment. The block with center alignment.

The block with right alignment. The block with right alignment. The block with right alignment. The block with right alignment. The block with right alignment.

The block with justify alignment. The block with justify alignment. The block with justify alignment. The block with justify alignment. The block with justify alignment. The block with justify alignment.

The block with justify alignment for all lines except for the last and right alignment for the last line. The block with justify alignment for all lines except for the last and right alignment for the last line. The block with justify alignment for all lines except for the last and right alignment for the last line.

The block with justify alignment and indent of the first line. The block with justify alignment and indent of the first line. The block with justify alignment and indent of the first line. The block with justify alignment and indent of the first line. The block with justify alignment and indent of the first line.

The block with justify alignment and outdent (negative indent) of the first line. The block with justify alignment and outdent (negative indent) of the first line. The block with justify alignment and outdent (negative indent) of the first line. The block with justify alignment and outdent (negative indent) of the first line. The block with justify alignment and outdent (negative indent) of the first line.